Kenneth Senior Jaffrey, a well-known naturopath who was diagnosed with cancer of the liver in his twenties, professed to having cured himself by fasting for forty-nine days following a period of “sunbathing, airbathing, relaxation, positive thinking and a diet of natural foods.” Jaffrey lived in Townsville, including Magnetic Island, for many years from the 1960s to the 1980s. He died in his ninetieth year in 1998. During his career he self-published a number of books and pamphlets on naturopathy. This archive consists of audiotapes of a series of his lectures.
